

Are You Coming to the Feast?

Isaac N. McHose, 1897

William James Kirkpatrick

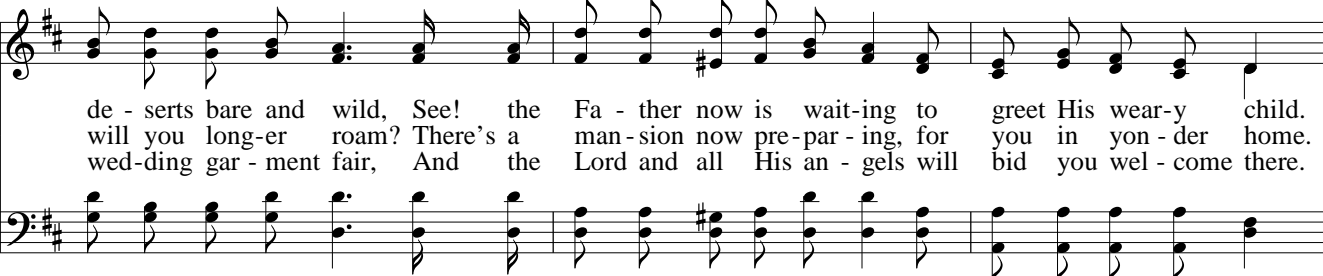

$\text{♩} = 100$

1. There's a feast now a - wait - ing, pre - pared by lov - ing hands, In the
2. Come, for all things are rea - dy, why will you stay a - way? Hear the
3. 'Tis a feast ev - er - last - ing, a - bun - dant, rich and free, Thro' the midst of the ban-quet, the gen - tle Sav - ior stands; Then no long - er go rov - ing o'er kind in - vi - ta - tion, O come, with - out de - lay; 'Tis the day of sal - va - tion; why blood of the Sav - ior, an o - pen door we see; Come and wear the white rai - ment, the de - serts bare and wild, See! the Fa - ther now is wait - ing to greet His wear - y child. will you long - er roam? There's a man - sion now pre - par - ing, for you in yon - der home.

wed - ding gar - ment fair, And the Lord and all His an - gels will bid you wel - come there.

Refrain

You're in - vit - ed, are you com - ing? O ac - cept the in - vi - ta - tion; All to the feast, to the feast See the Fa - ther now is wait - ing To

1. things are rea - dy, come; 2. wel - come wan - d' rers home.

