

Step into the Fountain

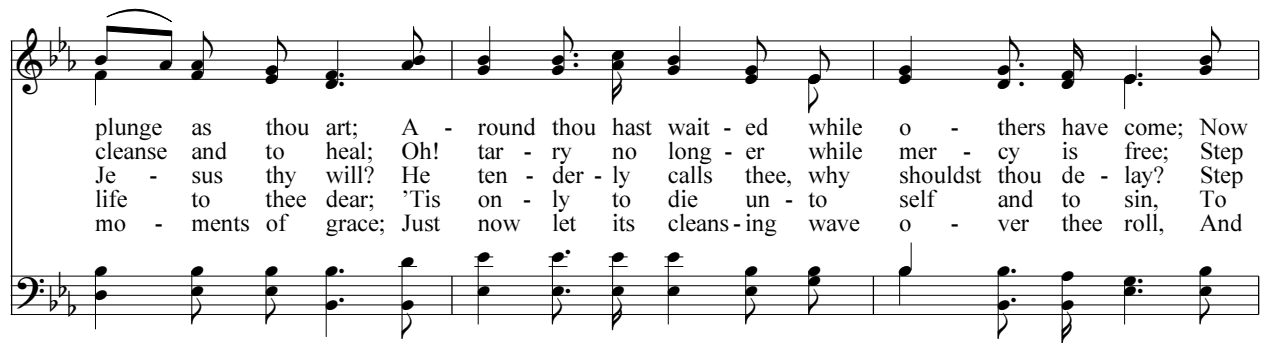

Emma F. Fisk, 1889

John Robson Sweney

$\text{♩} = 91$

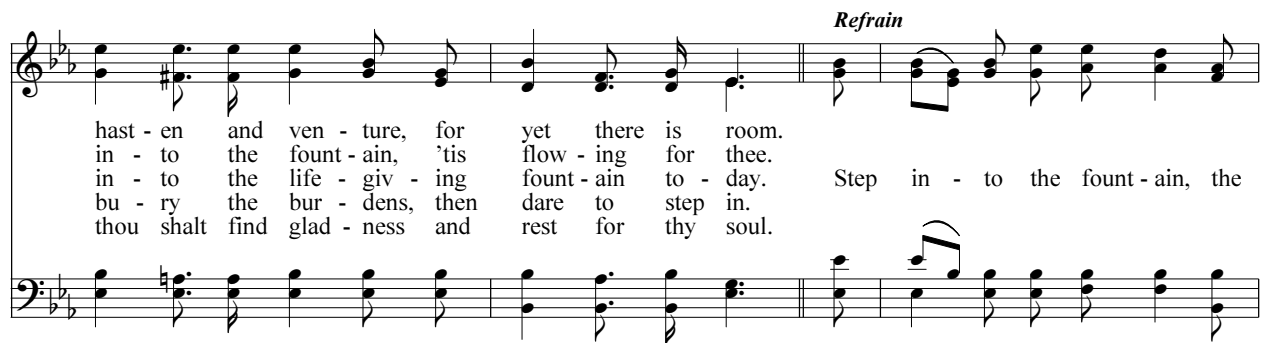

1. Step in-to the fount-ain, O sin - bur-dened heart, Nor think to grow bet - ter, but
2. Step in-to the fount-ain, thou long - est to feel Its ut - ter - most pow - er to
3. Step in-to the fount-ain, What! lin - ger-ing still? Canst thou not sur - ren - der to 4. Step in-to the fount-ain, thou need - est not fear; Step bold - ly, and count not thy
5. Step in-to the fount-ain, the hours fly a - pace; Then waste thou no long - er these plunge as thou art; A - round thou hast wait - ed while o - thers have come; Now cleanse and to heal; Oh! tar - ry no long - er while mer - cy is free; Step Je - sus thy will? He ten - der - ly calls thee, why shouldst thou de - lay? Step life to thee dear; 'Tis on - ly to die un - to self and to sin, To mo - ments of grace; Just now let its cleans-ing wave o - ver thee roll, And hast - en and ven - ture, for yet there is room. in - to the fount - ain, 'tis flow - ing for thee. Step in - to the fount - ain, the in - to the life - giv - ing fount - ain to - day.

Refrain

bu - ry the bur - dens, then dare to step in.
thou shalt find glad - ness and rest for thy soul.

pre-cious cleans-ing fount-ain; Step in-to the fount-ain, 'tis flow-ing for thee.