

Some One Is Hitting the Home Trail Tonight

Grace Stoddard Dennstedt, before 1922

Carrie Booker Person

♩ = 102

1. There's a road that leads to the vale of des - pair, A
2. O trail that winds on to the glor - i - ous goal, To
3. The trail that leads home is the best way to take, The road all en - shroud - ed with wor - ry and care; An - o - ther that leads up to Heav - en at last, the bright home of the soul; For some one stands rea - dy to path of the wick - ed we long to for - sake; At the end of the trail there are glo - ry and light, Thank God, we are hit - ting the home trail to - night.

win in the fight, And some - one is hit - ting the home trail to - night.
man - sions of light, For those who are hit - ting the home trail to - night.

Refrain

Hit - ting the home trail to - night, Hit - ting the home trail to - night;
the home trail to - night the home trail to - night;

An - gels smile on the beau - ti - ful sight, Some - one is hit - ting the home trail to - night.

The musical score is written in 4/4 time with a key signature of two flats (B-flat and E-flat). It features a treble and bass clef staff. The tempo is marked as quarter note = 102. The lyrics are arranged in three verses, with a refrain section. The score includes various musical notations such as notes, rests, and bar lines.